Missed Him.

City Marshal Joe Knight went to a house near the old Masonic building on the east side last night, shortly after midnight, to arrest a whisky peddler named Chaney, who has been carrying whisky in from Chetopa once or twice a week and selling it out around town. The officers went and made the arrest, but Chaney, who is a negro, after putting on his clothes, was hunting around for his shoes, suddenly jumped upon a table and escaped through a sliding window. Three shots were fired at him as he ran away, but none, it is thought, took effect. He will probably not peddle any more liquor in this town for a while.

"Rough Riders Got 'Em."

A quartermaster is short in his oats account, and charges that the rough riders helped themselves too bountifully. Well, the boys, or some of them, have been used to pretty hard diet at times, but are not brought up, even in the wild and woolly west, to eat oats—or hay either. As they did not have their horses with them, it is difficult to see what use the boys had for those oats.

A good farm to rent; apply to Frank Billingslea, Vinita, I. T. 401f

The Funny Minstrels.

A packed house greeted the Beach & Bowers' minstrels at the Empire theater last evening, and they were well amused for a couple of hours. Every seat was taken and chairs were placed in the aisles. They have a raft of new jokes and gags, their songs are up to date and the specialties are good. There are a number of good comedians and singers in the troupe, and among the newest of the novelties is that by Gruett, Beers and Gruett, which captured the house. Another novelty was Bowers' trained pig, which was introduced with good effect. Altogether, it is a good minstrel show, and they will appear again this evening.—Quincy Whig, Feb. 25.

At Bird-Ada opera house, Saturday night, November 5. Seats now on sale at Foreman's Pharmacy.

Miami Court.

There is a chance of Miami missing its term of court again this fall. Last spring's term was put off on account of high water, and the government refused to pay for the use of the house, after engaging it. Now the owner insists that they pay two prices for the present term or not use it. There is no good reason the government should not deal with an individual just as fairly as one individual is required by the law to deal with another.

Old Money.

Mr. Lister, of the Chase-Lister Theatrical company, billed here for next week, has a rare numismatic collection—very rare. In addition to a specimen of all the fractional paper currency issued during the rebellion, from 3 cents to 50, it embraces an eight dollar bill issued in 1775—a curiosity indeed, signed with pen and ink instead of printed signatures.

Bull Fight.

Lee Taylor and Jim Harmon undertook yesterday to drive a steer from the Bob Taylor place southeast of town. The brute became enraged and gored both their horses and was entirely unmanageable. Lee Taylor finally shot it and made beef of it—selling it out by retail around town today.

$1 Reward.

TOWN OF POOH-BAHS.

Every One in It Is an Officer and Every One of Them Is in Trouble.

The town of Chesilhurst, which is in Camden county, N. J., contains only 20 voters, yet it has a city government, with a mayor, board of aldermen, tax collectors, police justice, constable, city treasurer, comptroller, jail keeper and all the rest of it. It is a comic opera town, and just now the entire city government is in all sorts of disgrace.

Three of the five aldermen are under bonds to appear before the next grand jury to answer to the charge of misdemeanor in office in making appropriations of funds which had no existence in the city treasury. The charge was made against them by Mayor Heacock, who gave them a hearing before himself, giving testimony against them. To get even with the mayor the three aldermen forced him to issue a warrant for his own arrest on the charge of not paying his personal taxes, which amounted to $4.01.

"I am innocent," said the mayor, "but I commit myself to the custody of Constable Bates for a further hearing."

Under the law the constable has power to sell the mayor's personal effects. If they do not realize $4.01 he can put the mayor in jail till he pays the amount. But as his honor has the appointment of the constable, Bates is afraid to make any move against him, knowing that if he started to the jail with the mayor he would be removed from office on the way there. So the three bellicose aldermen have preferred charges against Bates for malfeasance in office in not arresting Heacock. The mayor is considering the charges.

At the hearing of the cases there is never any audience, the entire population of the town being present in some official capacity. Every one has an office, and several persons have three or four.

The aldermen threaten to ask the governor of New Jersey to call out the state troops to make the mayor behave. The mayor himself has been in close consultation with the sheriff of the county with a view to having martial law declared.—Chicago Journal.
